

You could be eating dead skin every day ...and it's someone else's!

Share a keyboard and you could be sharing more than you bargained for.

Every day each of sheds around 10 million skin cells, and many of them end up in our keyboards, along with food particles, hair, eyelashes, body fat and saliva – and those are just the mentionable ones!

So, it doesn't take a genius to realise what we could be eating every time we touch our mouths.

Clean equipment means a clean and healthy environment, so regular use of the best selling dedicated cleaners promotes better health, less absenteeism through illness, and sound commercial sense.

Use Ultraclene wet and dry anti-bacterial wipes for keyboards and casings.

Blow out those keyboard nasties with our powerful Sprayduster, and keep your mouse squeaky clean and your tracker ball rolling with handy pre-saturated wipes.
